THE RACE IS ON!

For 38 years, BMI has been a global leader in connecting institutions with students, reaching millions of prospective students worldwide and continually redefining recruitment strategies.

As part of the Times Higher Education (THE) group, we offer innovative platforms to engage students throughout their research journey – whether through online events or in-person meetings with admissions representatives.

BMI delivers the International Education Professional Certificate (IEPC), developed in collaboration with THE, NAFSA, and Common Purpose, providing tailored professional development for international education experts. Additionally, we facilitate events related to the Times Higher Education Counsellor Accreditation Programme (THE CAP), offering world-class, free training for school counsellors.

Through these initiatives and premium networking events, we expand global partnerships, connecting institutions with senior scholarship and government leaders, school principals, and top counsellors worldwide.
